TERRIBLE BOILER EXPLOSION.

Two Men Killed.

On Monday afternoon the boiler in Frank S. Smith's steam saw mill near Painter's burst, carrying death and destruction. The boiler was bought in 1883 of Geo. Page & Co., of Baltimore, and was supposed to be in good order having been thoroughly overhauled this spring. A few minutes before the explosion Mr. Smith passed the engine and noticed the register stood at 90 pounds with plenty of water. For about 15 minutes it had stood still while the belts were being changed from plainer to saw. The fireman, Toke Savage, called the engineer, Capt. E. V. Holt and told him that the steam gauge would not work, that he had a good fire and the register marked only 60 pounds. Capt. Holt came up and examining the steam and water gauges told the fireman to get some shavings. The latter had gone but a short distance when the boiler burst killing Holt instantly. He was found under the fallen timbers dead. A piece of iron about the size of a pound weight had struck him in the mouth and passed through his head: he was badly scalped, his neck, one arm, and both legs broken. The negro Savage was blown forty feet away, badly scalped and one leg broken. The mill was completely destroyed. But for the heavy rain at the time everything would have been burned. The safety valve was set to blow off at 125 pounds pressure, and the register showed only 90 pounds at the time Mr. Smith left the mill. Mr. Smith says it had plenty of water and only an ordinary heat of steam on—which never exceeded 100 pounds. The loss is estimated by the owner to be not less than $1800.

Capt. Holt leaves a widow and three little girls. No blame is attached to any of the employees who are regarded as good careful hands as could be found anywhere. This is the first accident of kind on the Shore where so many engines are run.

Since the above was put in type we have learned that the negro fireman, Toke Savage, died from his injuries on Wednesday.

Letter from Cape Charles City.

MR. EDITOR—Our city is as busy as bee. The hanging of carpenter's hammer and the loud and oft repeated cry of "mo' more!" give notice of improvements being daily made. The paint brush, the kalsomine and whitewash brush are busy making bright and neat the pretty cottages and more pretentious houses. Hm, Wm. L. Scott has the good old fashioned idea of the eternal fitness of things, and has wisely and in excellent taste made the bodies of all his buildings white and painted the roofs red. A man with so much good sense is a fit leader in the House. Your Mr. Warrington, of Keller, was in our city last week working in the interest of the Hartford Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, and the Hartford Life and Annuity Company; so active and intelligent has been that in one day he secured policies to the amount of $12,600. The ink slogging between our two weeklies has come to a halt—we hope for good and all. These spats amount to nothing more than annoyance to the public, and attract attention, only because they are printed, and we suggest the space occupied might easily be better used in efforts to build up their country. Besides the eyes of all the world are not on them. An opposition ticket was nominated on Monday night, with J. E. N. Sterling for mayor, and J. D. Taylor, William Sterling, Severn Savage, Wm. C. Truitt, S. B. Travis and L. Brittingham for councilmen. Messrs. J. E. N. Sterling, J. D. Taylor, William Sterling had been nominated for the council by the Democrats who the next night again met and promptly "scratching" them off their ticket, substituted the names of Dr. D. F. Wilkins, C. A. McKenney, B. F. Duntun and W. W. Hutchinson. The colored element seems about to complicate matters by putting a third ticket in the field. Should they do so and tie closely together what the result may be is beyond my ken as they constitute more than a third of our voting population. News from Norfolk shows a grand enthusiasm and a high confidence in the results of the coming campaign. The sending of John J. Gunter as delegate and naming of Dr. A. Brock-enburgh as alternate to the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis was most wise. By the way, what splendid congressional timber these two young old fashioned Jeffersonian Democrats present. Either one would make the brown bug break before reaching the last quarter stretch.

Col. H. W. Dunne has at last come back to us. He looks as if he evidently enjoyed matrimony and his genial face, if possible, more smiling than ever. Welcome home, Colonel, and may you and your good wife live to celebrate your centennial wedding day.

Our farmers are beginning to think they were more scared than hurt while they were so concerned about their crops. True, they have suffered damage but in nothing like the degree they first anticipated. The weather seems about to be in a way, and we hope for a season of good, clear and warm growing weather. It would benefit the people almost as much as the crops.

Yours,

ERASMUS SQUIBBS, Cape Charles City, 5, 16, 88.
